Listen Google, we’re going to court soon! Hearing plan – clearly, without any nonsense

Based on the evidence collected in recent weeks, it is clear that Google AI Studio does not do what the user sees on the interface. “Deletion” does not actually happen; the system continues to keep the conversation alive in the background, and this affects millions of users.

At the hearing, I will present the following:

- The system continues to operate after deletion, because the conversation can still be continued, meaning everything remains in the background.
- The interface claims “no data”, while everything remains and continues running in the background (fake deletion).
- The mandatory 30-day response deadline was missed, which is a separate legal violation.
- The DPO had 30 days to respond, since I notified them multiple times, and I proved this in the following post: https://discuss.ai.google.dev/t/proven-intentional-data-retention-after-deletion-in-google-ai-studio-official-gdpr-complaint-submitted-to-the-dpo/170944

At the hearing, I will request:

- The presentation of backend system logs, so it becomes clear what actually happened.
- Official acknowledgment that deletion did not occur.
- A public apology to all users, since this issue affects millions of people.

- Full transparency of the process, including public access and media presence.
- The temporary shutdown of AI Studio until a real, functioning deletion mechanism is implemented.
- I will demand that the court require Google to provide actual proof of deletion, not just statements. Google's word is not enough – anyone can say anything.
- And I state clearly: NDA or lawsuit – I don't care.
  The point is that Google must not avoid responsibility or hide from the evidence.

This is not an isolated error, but a system-level behavior that must be exposed publicly.
